AUTHORITY AND REFERENCE

Authority cited: Sections 19420, 19440, 19460 and 19562, Business and Professions Code.
Reference: Sections 19420, 19562 and 19661, Business and Professions Code.

Business and Professions Code sections 19420, 19440, 19460 and 19562 authorize the Board to adopt the proposed regulation, which would implement, interpret or make specific sections 19420, 19562 and 19661, Business and Professions Code.

INFORMATIVE DIGEST/POLICY STATEMENT OVERVIEW

Business and Professions Code section 19420 provides that jurisdiction and supervision over meetings in California where horse races with wagering on their results are held or conducted, and over all persons or things having to do with the operation of such meetings, is vested in the CHRB. Business and Professions Code section 19440 provides that the Board shall have all powers necessary and proper to enable it to carry out fully and effectually the purposes of this chapter. Responsibilities of the Board shall include, but not be limited to, adopting rules and regulations for the protection of the public and the control of horse racing and pari-mutuel wagering. Business and Professions Code section 19460 provides that all licenses granted under this chapter are subject to all rules, regulations, and conditions prescribed by the Board. Business and Professions Code section 19562 provides that the Board may prescribe rules, regulations, and conditions, consistent with the provisions of this chapter, under which all horse races with wagering on their results shall be conducted in this State. Business and Professions Code section 19661 states unless otherwise expressly provided, the Board may impose a monetary penalty of not more than one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) for a violation of any of the provisions of this chapter.

Rule 1865 provides that a trainer who enters a horse, or who causes a horse to be entered on his behalf, is responsible for ensuring that the true sex of the entered horse is listed on its certificate of registration on file in the racing office. If the true sex of a horse is not correctly identified in the official program for the race in which the horse is entered, the trainer of the horse shall be subject to a minimum fine of $1,000. Despite concerted efforts by the CHRB and racing officials, violations of Rule 1865 continue – usually because the trainer fails to notify the racing office that a horse has been gelded. In many cases errors in reporting the true sex of the horse are not discovered, until the horse reaches the receiving barn about 45 minutes before the horse is scheduled to race. By the time the horse identifier at the receiving barn examines the horse and notifies the stewards of the sex change, it is too late to effectively notify the public.

It is widely acknowledged within the horseracing industry that gelding has its benefits. While male horses generally are not fully mature until two years of age, they may begin to reach sexual maturity around 12 to 14 months. At a little over one year old, male horses can start to show interest in fillies and become challenging for handlers. Colts can become fractious, fight their handlers, and lose focus if they think a filly is near. As a group, colts tend to be contrary which makes them difficult to train. A colt's behavior may not be safe for horsemen or the horse, and can become more problematic if it injures itself and requires stall rest and controlled exercise for an extended period of time. The injured colt is likely to chafe under the confining regimen.

In addition to behavioral problems, the gelding procedure may have practical health considerations. Sometimes gelding will help the horse lose some weight and keep it sounder. This can be significant because as the male horse matures, testosterone in its system predisposes it to build extra muscle mass and retain more fat; the growth pattern can outstrip the maturity of the horse's joints. Some male horses may have testicular abnormalities. Cryptorchidism, the failure of one or both testes to descend into a normal scrotal position from the abdominal cavity, is an example. Stallions can still produce normal amounts of testosterone. Such horses are called ridglings and should not be used for breeding.

Regardless of the reasons for gelding a racehorse, the proper identification of a gelding is most important to the wagering public when a horse has been gelded between starts. Some believe a gelding's performance improves significantly in the start after the horse has been gelded, because in its un-altered state the horse might not have been training as well and performing below his ability, refusing to put out an honest effort. When the true sex of a horse entered to race is not reported, horseplayers claim the misinformation cost them a valuable data point in evaluating the horse for wagering purposes. A recent incident of note involved a horse at Santa Anita Park Race Track. The stewards, the racing office and the wagering public were unaware the horse had been gelded until he was examined 30 minutes before he ran. The Pick 6, Pick 4, Pick 3 and Daily double pools had closed, so all the wagers were locked in. The horse won its race, and one person had a unique winning ticket that paid close to $900,000. Had the wagering public been fully informed, those who consider gelding a factor might have made changes to their selections, and the payout of the wagering pool might have been different. The stewards initially considered scratching the horse; however, they determined that Rule 1865 did not grant them authority to scratch a horse in that situation. Currently, Rule 1865 only provides for a minimum fine of $1,000 for the trainer if the true sex of the horse is not correctly identified in the official program.

The proposed amendment to Rule 1865 adds a new subsection 1865(d)(2). The new subsection provides that if the true sex of a horse is not reported to the racing office prior to the opening of wagering for the race in which the horse is entered, the stewards shall declare the horse from the race. Declaring the horse from the race will provide some relief for the wagering public and an additional incentive for trainers to pay attention to the information provided to the racing office. Depending on the types of wagers they placed, persons who selected the horse that is scratched will have their wagers cancelled and refunded, or their selections replaced by the favorite or by an alternate they designated at the time they made their wagers. Trainers will have an incentive to pay close attention to their entries, as scratching the horse precludes any possibility of earning a share of the purse. The Board determined it would not allow the horse to run for purse only because that would provide the possibility of the horse placing, which would result in the trainer receiving a percentage of the purse winnings.

Subsection 1865(d)(2), which sets a reporting deadline of the opening of wagering for the race in which the horse is entered, provides adequate time for the trainer to inform the racing office about the true sex of the horse, and for the information to be disseminated to the wagering public. The morning routine on the backside can begin as early as 4:00 a.m. The racing office generally opens at 7:00 a.m., and the totalizator* begins operating at 8:30 a.m. PST. As the first post time for a race meeting is generally between 12 noon and 2:00 p.m., the racing office will have time to disseminate the true sex of the horse. (*The totalizator is an automated system of wagering on aces that dispenses and records wagering tickets, calculates and displays odds and payoffs. It also provides for cashing winning tickets.)

POLICY STATEMENT OVERVIEW OF ANTICIPATED BENEFITS OF PROPOSAL

Board Rule 1865 requires that any alteration of the sex of a horse from the sex as recorded on the certificate of foal registration or the eligibility certificate or other official registration certificate of the horse shall be reported to the racing secretary and the official horse identifier if the horse is entered to race at any race meeting. The primary purpose of the regulation is to ensure that the public has full and correct information regarding horses entered in a race. If the true sex of a horse is not correctly identified in the official program for the race in which the horse is entered, the trainer of the horse shall be subject to a minimum fine of $1,000. However, Rule 1865 does not provide the stewards with the ability to scratch a horse from a race if, on the day of the race in which the horse is entered, it is discovered the true sex of the horse is not consistent with that recorded on documents held by the racing office. The proposed amendment to Rule 1865 adds a new subsection 1865(d)(2) to provide that if the true sex of a horse is not reported to the racing office prior to the opening of wagering for the race in which the horse is entered, the stewards shall declare the horse from the race.

The proposed amendments to Rule 1865 benefits California's horsemen and the public by providing an additional incentive to ensure that any alteration to the sex of a horse is reported as required under Rule 1865. Full information regarding the condition of a horse entered to race helps level the playing field for horsemen and provides valuable information to the wagering public. Full, accurate disclosure regarding horses entered to race assists the industry in providing transparency, which is essential in maintaining the integrity of the sport. The proposed amendment is consistent with current Board regulations in that the trainer is responsible for the condition of the horse entered to race, and the stewards have general authority and supervision over all licensees and other persons attendant on horses. The proposed amendment does not protect public health and safety, worker safety, or the environment, the prevention of discrimination, the promotion of fairness or social equity, and the increase in openness and transparency in government. The regulation promotes transparency in business by requiring that the true sex of the horse entered to race is disclosed to the public.

CONSISTENCY EVALUATION

During the process of developing the amendment to Rule 1865, the CHRB has conducted a search of any similar regulations on this topic and has concluded that the regulation is neither inconsistent nor incompatible with existing state regulations.

DISCLOSURES REGARDING THE PROPOSED ACTION

Mandate on local agencies and school districts: none.

Cost or savings to any state agency: none.

Cost to any local agency or school district that must be reimbursed in accordance with Government Code sections 17500 through 17630: none.

Other non-discretionary cost or savings imposed upon local agencies: none.

Cost or savings in federal funding to the state: none.

The Board has made an initial determination that the proposed amendment of Rule 1865 will not have a significant statewide adverse economic impact directly affecting business including the ability of California businesses to compete with businesses in other states.

The following studies/relevant data were relied upon in making the above determination: none.

ECONOMIC IMPACT ASSESSMENT

The results of the Board's Economic Impact Assessment as required by Government Code section 11346.3(b) are as follows:

The proposed amendment will provide consistency and clarity with regards to the necessity for disclosing the true sex of a horse entered to race, and the consequences if such disclosure is not accomplished prior to the opening of wagering for the race in which the horse is entered. The proposed amendment will protect the interests of California horsemen and the public by ensuring full disclosure and transparency regarding the condition of horses entered to race.

The proposed amendment to Rule 1865 will impact horsemen who fail to report any alteration of the sex of a horse entered to race. However, the net economic effect of the proposed amendment will be neutral. Scratching a horse simply means the horse will not be running in the race. In most instances, wagers on a scratched horse will be refunded. In multi-race wagers, such as a Pick-4 or Pick-6, the scratched horse will be replaced with the favorite (some wagers allow the patron to designate alternate wagering interests).

The proposed regulations will not impact the state's environment.

Cost impact on representative private persons or businesses: The Board is not aware of any cost impacts that a representative private person or business would necessarily incur in reasonable compliance with the proposed actions.

Significant effect on housing costs: none.

The adoption of the proposed amendment of Rule 1865 will not (1) create or eliminate jobs within California; (2) create new businesses or eliminate existing businesses within California; or (3) affect the expansion of businesses currently doing business within California.

Effect on small businesses: none. The proposal to amend Rule 1865 does not affect small businesses because horse racing is not a small business under Government Code section 11342.610.

CONSIDERATION OF ALTERNATIVES

In accordance with Government Code section 11346.5, subdivision (a)(13), the Board has determined that no reasonable alternative it considered or that has otherwise been identified and brought to its attention would be more effective in carrying out the purpose for which the action is proposed or would be as effective and less burdensome to affected private persons than the proposed action, or would be more cost-effective to affected private persons and equally effective in implementing the statutory policy or other provision of law.

The Board invites interested persons to present statements or arguments with respect to alternatives to the proposed regulation at the scheduled hearing or during the written comment period.

INITIAL STATEMENT OF REASONS

RULE 1865. ALTERING OF SEX OF HORSE

SPECIFIC PURPOSE OF THE REGULATION

The Board proposes to amend Rule 1865, Altering of Sex of Horse. The proposed amendment to Rule 1865 provides that if the true sex of a horse is not reported to the racing office prior to the opening of wagering for the race in which the horse is entered, the stewards shall declare the horse from the race. (To “declare” a horse from a race means the horse is removed from the race.)

PROBLEM

Rule 1865 provides that a trainer who enters a horse, or who causes a horse to be entered on his behalf, is responsible for ensuring that the true sex of the entered horse is listed on its certificate of registration on file in the racing office. If the true sex of a horse is not correctly identified in the official program for the race in which the horse is entered, the trainer of the horse shall be subject to a minimum fine of $1,000. Despite concerted efforts by the CHRB and racing officials, violations of Rule 1865 continue – usually because the trainer fails to notify the racing office that a horse has been gelded. In many cases errors in reporting the true sex of the horse are not discovered, until the horse reaches the receiving barn about 45 minutes before the horse is scheduled to race. By the time the horse identifier at the receiving barn examines the horse and notifies the stewards of the sex change, it is too late to effectively notify the public.

NECESSITY

Rule 1865 provides that a trainer who enters a horse, or who causes a horse to be entered on his behalf, is responsible for ensuring that the true sex of the entered horse is listed on its certificate of registration on file in the racing office. If the true sex of a horse is not correctly identified in the official program for the race in which the horse is entered, the trainer of the horse shall be subject to a minimum fine of $1,000. Despite concerted efforts by the CHRB and racing officials, violations of Rule 1865 continue. During fiscal year 2016-17 eight trainers were fined for violating Rule 1865. Such infractions usually occur because the trainer fails to notify the racing office that a horse has been gelded. In many cases the true sex of the horse is not discovered, and the information is not made public, until the horse reaches the receiving barn about 45 minutes before the horse is scheduled to race. By the time the horse identifier at the receiving barn examines the horse and notifies the stewards of the sex change, it is too late to effectively notify the public.

There are a number of reasons racehorses are gelded, and the practice is generally considered beneficial. Male horses are not fully mature until two years of age, however they may begin to reach sexual maturity around 12 to 14 months. At a little over one year old male horses can start to show interest in fillies and become challenging for handlers. Colts can become fractious, fight their handlers, and lose focus if they think a filly is near. As a group, colts tend to be contrary which makes them difficult to train. A colt’s behavior may not be safe for horsemen or the horse, and can become more problematic if it injures itself and requires stall rest and controlled exercise for an extended period of time. The injured colt is likely to chafe under the confining regimen. In addition to behavioral problems, the gelding procedure may have practical health considerations. Sometimes gelding will help the horse lose some weight and keep it sounder. As the male horse matures, testosterone in its system predisposes it to build extra muscle mass and retain more fat; the growth pattern can outstrip the maturity of the horse's joints. Some male horses may have testicular abnormalities. Cryptorchidism, the failure of one or both testes to descend into a normal scrotal position from the abdominal cavity, is an example. Stallions can still produce normal amounts of testosterone. Such horses are called ridglings and should not be used for breeding. Finally, it is easier to find a home for a retired racehorse if it is gelded. Not all racehorses are fit for breeding. Only a small percentage of racehorses have the stellar blood lines necessary to retire and earn stud fees.

Regardless of the reasons for gelding a racehorse, the proper identification of a gelding is most important to the wagering public when a horse has been gelded between starts. Some believe a gelding's performance improves significantly in the start after the horse has been gelded, because in its un-altered state the horse might not have been training as well and performing below his ability, refusing to put out an honest effort. When the true sex of a horse entered to race is not reported, horseplayers claim the misinformation cost them a valuable data point in evaluating the horse for wagering purposes. A recent incident of note involved a horse at Santa Anita Park Race Track. The stewards, the racing office and the wagering public were unaware the horse had been gelded until he was examined 30 minutes before he ran. The Pick 6, Pick 4, Pick 3 and Daily double pools had closed, so all the wagers were locked in. When the horse won, one person had a unique winning ticket that paid close to $900,000. Had the wagering public been fully informed, the outcome might have been different, as those who consider gelding a factor may have made other wagering selections. The stewards initially considered scratching the horse; however, they determined that Rule 1865 did not grant them authority to scratch a horse in that situation. Currently, Rule 1865 only provides for a minimum fine of $1,000 for the trainer if the true sex of the horse is not correctly identified in the official program.

The proposed amendment to Rule 1865 adds a new subsection 1865(d)(2). The new subsection provides that if the true sex of a horse is not reported to the racing office prior to the opening of wagering for the race in which the horse is entered, the stewards shall declare the horse from the race. Declaring the horse from the race will provide some relief for the wagering public and an additional incentive for trainers to pay attention to the information provided to the racing office. Depending on the types of wagers they placed, persons who selected the horse that is scratched will have their wagers cancelled and refunded, or their selections replaced by the favorite or by an alternate they designated at the time they made their wagers. Trainers will have an incentive to pay close attention to their entries, as scratching the horse precludes any possibility of earning a share of the purse. The Board determined it would not allow the horse to run for purse only because that would provide the possibility of a win, which would result in the trainer receiving a portion of the purse winnings.

Subsection 1865(d)(2), which sets a reporting deadline of the opening of wagering for the race in which the horse is entered, provides adequate time for the trainer to inform the racing office about the true sex of the horse, and for the information to be disseminated to the wagering public. The morning routine on the backside can begin as early as 4:00 a.m. The racing office generally opens at 7:00 a.m., and the totalizator* begins operating at 8:30 a.m. PST. As the first post time for a race meeting is generally between 12 noon and 2:00 p.m., the racing office will have time to disseminate the true sex of the horse. (*The totalizator is an automated system of wagering on races that dispenses and records wagering tickets, calculates and displays odds and payoffs. It also provides for cashing winning tickets.)

BENEFITS ANTICIPATED FROM THE REGULATORY ACTION

The proposed amendment to Rule 1865 benefits California's horsemen and the public by providing an additional incentive to ensure that any alteration to the sex of a horse is reported as required under Rule 1865. Full information regarding the condition of a horse entered to race helps level the playing field for horsemen and provides valuable information to the wagering public. Full, accurate disclosure regarding horses entered to race assists the industry in providing transparency, which is essential in maintaining the integrity of the sport. The proposed amendment is consistent with current Board regulations in that the trainer is responsible for the condition of the horse entered to race, and the stewards have general authority and supervision over all licensees and other persons attendant on horses. The proposed amendment does not protect public health and safety, worker safety, or the environment, the prevention of discrimination, the promotion of fairness or social equity, and the increase in openness and transparency in government. The regulation promotes transparency in business by requiring that the true sex of the horse entered to race is disclosed to the public.
